

Djamel Drider

Djamel Drider obtained his degree in Microbiology from University of Tizi-Ouzou (Algeria). Then, he prepared his master and PhD in Food Science at Montpellier University (France). D. Drider completed his postdoctoral training in molecular biology at Centro de Investigaciones Biologicas del CSIC (Spain) and Mount Sinai School of Medicine New York University (USA). After this academic pathway, D. Drider was hired as Associate Professor at Nantes Atlantic College of Veterinary Medicine, Food Science and Engineering (France) and then as Full Professor at Lille 1 University (France). Research of Prof. D. Drider is dedicated to antimicrobials and particularly to antimicrobial peptides, probiotics and food safety. Prof. Drider has coordinated 5 books and co-authored more than 80 publications in peer reviewed journals.