

Darin Henry, DVM, MBA
Director, Ruminant Business Strategy and Food Safety- The America's

Dr. Darin Henry brings extensive expertise in animal health and husbandry. He also brings practical financial business management and production animal medicine to our customers and allied industry partners. Prior to coming on board at Diamond V, Darin worked for Monsanto Dairy Business for seven years as a Sales and Technical Service Specialist and most recently as the Western U.S. Lead in Industry Affairs. Darin began his career in large animal medicine and surgery in Oregon and Idaho where he practiced for seven years. He has been intimately involved with multiple Branded Beef programs and has been spending the last 9 years working extensively with consumer facing food service companies, retailers, packers and industry associations to focus on the pre-harvest mitigation of harmful foodborne pathogens as well as developing novel non-antimicrobial strategies to promote innate immunity and reduce antibiotic resistance in cattle. Darin, along with his wife Monica and their two sons Nolan and Dylan, own and operate his family's 135-year-old beef ranch in Eastern Oregon. Darin received his BS in Animal Science and his DVM from Oregon State University.
